

Abstract of the Disclosure

A halogen lamp for motor vehicle headlights which has an electrical power consumption of between 50 watts and 100 watts and has at least one incandescent filament, the at least one incandescent filament (5) being formed as a single coil, the dimensions and/or geometry of which are matched to an operating voltage of at least 20 volts, and the length of the single coil being restricted to a range from 4.0 mm to 6.5 mm.